Father DARKLEAF's Column

Comments the Editor Gives It a Personal Touch

In our "Who's Who" last week, we hope to include about the "Colonel" as he is listed in "Who's Who In America" and is one of our brothers in the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. And this week, although we call Dr. Christian's hobby listed as "suckers" we confess that he is now my carpentering, making himself another office desk, and sensibly enough, making it right in the office.

Since we have that sub-head up above, "Whereon the editor puts in a personal touch," we, that is Mother Brightleaf and I, can state that we were present "ex-officio" at J. Mitchell's and Don Moses' birthday dinner party yesterday. Rev. Bibby sent us a big box of delicatables after it was all over. Incidently, we have suggested that Joel Flood ate at both tables, although he'll tell you he was called over to the clerk's room after the first table had ended.

* * *

Mother Burke never misses a Will Rogers picture. Mother Brightleaf dropped upon him in front of the theatre as we went up to see the latest, a crazy newspaper yarn, and Dick had to tell us how nearly fell into the aisle from laughing.

Mother writes that she can't see what Gertrude Stein is raving about. Well, can Gertrude?

Dr. Mann may or not want to have daily bulletins about Mrs. Roosevelt's ill check up, let you know.

* * *

Here's a corker that Dad tells us he was suing for divorces and hearing all those domestic cases, aired, the judge said: "I'm going to give this woman her alimony and also going to give her back to support her" Whereupon the ex-husband spoke up and said, "That's mighty nice of you judge, try to give her a dollar or once in a while, mys lf."

Germs Find Sefuge in the Uncleand Pocket

Most of us are particular to use a clean handkerchief every day, but we never think of sending our pockets to the wash. A London doctor believes that half the colds we catch are from germs stowed away in the walls of our pockets from handkerchief's. A man's suit has, on an average, eleven pockets, eleven different centers of possible infection. Taking it all around, we are as clean as any people on earth, so it is odd to notice our sins of omission in this respect. We need to peer at women when they were trailing skirts, but men today wear their trousers permanently turned up, providing a perfect lodgement for dust and germs. Then our shoes. We are very careful to clean and polish the outsides, but who ever dreams of cleaning the inside? Yet surely they need it. The same is true of hats. A man's hat may be worn for years and naturally becomes soaked with perspiration, yet few men send their hats to be cleaned.—Tit Bits Magazine.

Invented Lawn Tennis

The game of lawn tennis was invented by an Englishman, Maj Walter Clopton Wingfield. In 1874 he evolved a game that he called sphairistike and which was designed to be played on English lawns. In a short time it obtained great popularity. The Greek name was retained only a short time. Tennis, a very old game—"the game of kings," as it was called—had the word "lawn" prefixed to it, and that is still the proper name.

We, Too, Can Forgive

In the power of his fellowship we come to see ourselves. By the heart of his great love for us we can be warmed into the love for our poor brethren. In the sight of his forgiveness we, too, can forgive.

Not Wholly Lost

"Up and be doing." Is the word that comes from God for each of us. Leave some "good work" behind you that shall not be wholly lost when you have ceased away.

Serving God

"Let us serve God in the sunshine while he makes the sun shine. We shall then serve him all the better in the dark when he sends the darkness. The darkness is sure to come."

Serves Under Five Presidents

John Barton Payne, a retired judge and lawyer of international reputation, is serving his twelfth year as chairman of the American Red Cross. His service is without pay, and his appointment is by the President of the United States. He has served by appointment in high public office under five presidents—Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt.

Dance For School

There will be a big square dance at the drug store hall on Thursday night, April 18, for the benefit of the local high school athletic association. Music will be furnished by the Joe Sweeney band. It is sponsored by Willie Carter and E. T. Mitchell.

Hogs Often Become Ill From Eating Stale Feed

Sometimes hogs are sick because of poisoning rather than some disease, according to veterinarians in the United States Department of Agriculture. Hogs may be poisoned by spoiled feed, frosted alfalfa, excessive amount of cottonseed meal, poisonous plants, and garbage containing lye, soap powders, and other irritating substances. Sometimes hogs are poisoned by eating too much salt and frequently through drinking meat brine, of which they are very fond.

Carelessness in the handling of disinfectants, such as carbolic acid, bichloride of mercury, and cresol compound in hog lots may poison hogs. Salt poisoning creates an intense thirst, intestinal disturbances, and sometimes paralysis. Symptoms of poisoning are similar in character, such as restlessness, loss of appetite, vomiting, frequent urination, weakness, unsteady gait, increased respiration, and sometimes convulsions.

Medical treatment is of little value, except where the exact cause is known and the illness detected early. Emetics, followed by purgatives, give good results. The sick hogs should have access to plenty of clean drinking water and should not be fed heavily for a few days following the poisoning.
